Upon graduating from law school in 1983, I returned to Las Vegas and became an Associate with the law firm of Morton R. Galane. During my tenure with Mr. Galane, I worked on, and litigated, a number of high profile cases. I was directly responsible for litigating the high profile Contract disputes between the Riviera Hotel vs. Allen King, Riviera Hotel vs. Liza Minnelli, Riviera Hotel vs. Joan Rivers and the Riviera Hotel vs. Buddy Hackett. In addition, I assisted Mr. Galane in a major litigation between the Brisco Construction Company vs. Clark County regarding the construction of the Clark County Sewage Treatment Plant and the Wayne Newton NBC liable trial. The Jury award Newton twenty one million ($21,000,000.00) dollars in damages which, at the time, was the highest award of monetary damages in the history of the United States.

For the past twenty-eight (28) years my legal career has included experience in almost every aspect of practice of law. I have practiced from traffic court to the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals and I have been admitted to the United States Supreme Court. I have argued and litigated before the Nevada Supreme Court, District Court, Family Court, Justice Court, Probate Court and Juvenile Court. I have argued and litigated in Clark County, Nye County, Washoe County, Elko County, Carson City County and Douglas County.

I have participated and litigated in complex real estate transactions which include the sale of the Marina Hotel & Casino to the MGM Grand Hotel. Litigation between Focus 2000, a Tony Marnell entity, and the Aladdin Hotel & Casino regarding real property located at Harmon Avenue and the Las Vegas Strip. This litigation resulted in the Nevada Supreme Court awarding the real property to my clients. I litigated the sale and receivership of the largest mall in Douglas County.

I was also involved in litigating class action cases including the shareholder class action against Circus Circus and the consumer class action litigation against Courtesy Pontiac regarding false advertising.

I also have handled hundreds of domestic law cases, big and small, involving every aspect of family law. Including, but not limited to, child support, temporary restraining orders, temporary protective orders and domestic violence cases. I have also appeared in Juvenile Court regarding, crimes committed by minors and parental abuse (physical, emotional & sexual). I have represented individuals regarding child support enforcement sought by the District Attorney. I have represented individuals regarding the District Attorney criminal enforcement of bad checks.

During my career I have also defended University Medical Center regarding claims of malpractice brought against physicians, nurses and staff employed or contracted with UMC. I have also represented the Union Pacific Railroad regarding Federal Employee Liability Act (FELA) claims brought by railroad employees. I have also represented individuals in personal injury and malpractice cases.

I have also represented Jakes Crane & Rigging which, at the time was one of the largest crane operators in the world, regarding all aspects of commercial litigation.

My practice also includes all aspects of Administrative Law. My administrative law practice has included appearing before the Las Vegas City Council and the Clark County Commissioners regarding zoning and variance matters. In addition, for the past twenty one (21) years, I have represented professionally licensed individuals to their respective Boards, Agencies and Commissions. I have appeared before the Nevada State Medical Board, Nevada Division of Real Estate, Nevada Chiropractic Board, Nevada Contractor's Board, Nevada Nursing Board, Nevada Architectural Board, Nevada State Board of Osteopathic Medicine, Nevada State Board of Pharmacy, Arizona Medical Board, Arizona Dental Board, Utah Medical Board, Iowa Medical Board, Wyoming Dental Board and the California Medical Boards.

ADMINISTRATIVE EXPERIENCE

19. Describe in detail your experience in overseeing and managing the work of other attorneys.

I have been a partner in a law firm since 1989. During that time, I have mentored, overseen and managed many associates in every aspect of becoming an attorney. Everything from preparing legal briefs, legal research, interrogatories, production of documents, admissions, supreme court arguments, preparation of witnesses (direct and cross examination), opening /closing statements, depositions, client communications and billing. With all of these tasks, I always emphasize, above all, that their conduct must be governed by one principal...at all costs they must do the right thing. Always remembering the most important thing is to do what is in the best interest of the client, not what is in the best interest of the firm. The associates, under my direction, have included former law clerks and our current Attorney General.

20. Describe in detail your experience in preparing and overseeing a budget.

I have always been a person who loved numbers. This was just one of the reasons I obtained an Accounting Degree at UNLV. I have always believed if you do not pay meticulous attention to the numbers, no matter how hard you work and no matter how good your intentions are no organization can achieve its goals. In the private sector the goal is to achieve profit, based upon controlled expansion and contraction of production. In the public sector, the goal is to maximize the monetary resources allocated to an agency by employing highly motivated public employees to achieve the mission of the agency where they are employed. In the public sector, the person in charge of presenting the budget must be sensitive to the simple fact that public employees are generally not motivated just by compensation. Generally, public employees have an altruistic motive to have a positive effect on the communities where they live, based upon doing a job well done. With a public budget, the person advocating the budget must have the ability to communicate in a positive and effective manner with those in charge of approving the requested budget. My way or the highway concept just does not work in a public setting.

My experience with overseeing budgets goes way back to when I was elected as the UNLV Student Body-Treasurer in 1977. At the time, the UNLV's Student Government was allocated hundreds of thousands of dollars in student fees to oversee and manage the obligations of UNLV's Student Government. It was my obligation as Treasurer to prepare a budget which had to be submitted and approved by to the Student Senate. The approved budget had to enable student government to operate not only its office and staff, but also to fund and account for operation of the student newspaper, student day care center, student radio station, student activities and, in part, the operation of the student union within the allocation of the funds received. This task was accomplished by my recruitment of the best and brightest senior accounting majors with the help of recruited faculty advisors, at no cost to the student government. I am proud to say the budget prepared by my office for the UNLV student government for the fiscal year 1977-78 achieve all objectives with no short falls or deficit spending.

In 1978 I was elected UNLV Vice President of Finance. I was assigned additional duties, but basically had the same duties I had to perform as Treasurer the previous year. By applying the same approach used in the previous year, the approved budget by the Student Senate achieved all of the objectives with no short falls for the fiscal year 1978-79 or deficit spending.

During my years of co-managing four (4) law firms in the past twenty (20) years, as the partner with an accounting degree, I have been primarily responsible for setting goals and budgets with our Accountant. This private sector experience has given me an insight as to being profitable as a small business owner.

Lastly, whether you are a Republican or Democratic, being Chairman of either party proposes some very interesting budgetary challenges. I refer to these challenges as affectionately trying to herd cats but, it was through this invaluable experience that I learned how to budget and manage large numbers of people in a positive way. Nothing can be harder than budgeting and managing a large number of people who are all volunteers. Patience, listening and communicating positively with motivated volunteers has allowed us to achieve all of our budgetary goals.

21. Describe in detail your experience in managing and supervising non-attorney staff subject to collective bargaining agreements.

None.

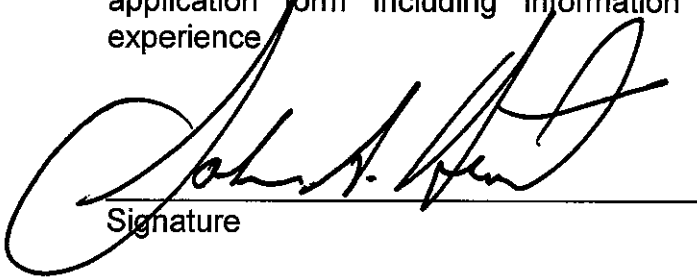

However, I am very much aware and of the arguments made by working men and women regarding the necessity for collective bargaining and the counter arguments currently being made whether collective bargaining agreements are necessary.
